

Visitors from Spirit

Readers of the authors earlier books will be familiar with the communications of the Phoenix Spirit Group. The present book is devoted to the communications of spirit visitors who have made guest appearances to share experiences and learning from their previous earthly lives. Here you will meet scores of these visitors including Isabella who lived in the 18th century who was thought by her contemporaries to have airs and graces, liked to create a stir when entering a room and was over attached to her clothes. Some seemed to learn and develop through the very nature of their occupation such as James, a dragoon in the early 19th century who learned calmness and to live in the moment. The anonymous gangster who was engaged in protection rackets reflected deeper flaws in character than Isabella but demonstrates how all may transmute themselves in time. Some learned from difficult life experiences or circumstances such as Elena, living in the late 1700s, who was overcome by grief upon the death of her husband, the pain clouding her vision and extinguishing her hope. She now wishes she could dry all the tears of those affected by grief and give them a rose of hope.
