Who can completely disrupt the airline industry? Who can change the face of the travel business in a revolutionary way? A marketing company that will trigger you to want to travel. One that will let you know which of your friends you can meet where. One that will network on your behalf and bring new business opportunities and arrange for meetings in places that meet your tastes and preference. One that will suggest and pencil in landmark sightseeing or adventures around your calendar with people you want, integrating social media and business networks. A concierge that will make your life easier and take care of your bags and makes sure your personal media library is loaded into the individual in-flight entertainment system in the seat you selected. One that is not a travel company, but a lifestyle partner that is part of your everyday life, whether you travel or not. This eBook applies a proven business model design method and applies it to dominant online search and content aggregators, visualizing how they could enter the business model, disrupt the status quo and generate more sustainable profits by not viewing the commercial aviation industry as a transportation business.
