

302 Professional Skincare, Studio Care Guide

For many practitioners studio care is key to successful work with their clients. An outstanding facial or other treatment that provides visible results will generate high loyalty and lead directly to home care product choices by the client. Your techniques are part of your personality as much as they are practical methods of problem solving. You are performing and you will be judged by how you present yourself, the cleanliness of your room and the organization of your equipment. The appearance of the products you use and all the necessary tools should reflect very high standards of cleanliness and organization. A haphazard workplace inspires zero confidence and sets a poor impression. Meticulous attention to details is the hallmark of every successful practice. In this guide, we provide skin development techniques that require the use of 302 Skincare products. If you intend to mix products from other lines you risk an unexpected reaction.
